BARBARI CAPTURED BY BRITISH Greeks Threaten Fascist Bases In Albania

Today's War Moves

By J. W. T. MASON
British United Press War Experts
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin
OFFENSIVE operations which the British have started against Italian forces in North Africa seem primarily for the purpose of disrupting the new enemy advanced base at Sidi Barrani and the newly constructed line of communications running back to the Libyan border. Associated with this movement is an effort to cut off the Italian forces at Sidi Barrani and vicinity.

The Italians occupied Sidi Barrani on September 16. Since then they have dug wells and made more effective the desert road connections with Libya, about 60 miles westward, where the main Italian army is centered.

Sidi Barrani has been transformed into a fairly strong base for the eventual Italian drive eastward through the Egyptian desert to Alexandria.

Tepelini Is Target Of Heavy Artillery Attack; Fires Start

British Warplanes Smash Hard At Valona, Chief Port Of Supply For Italians Fighting South Of Tirana

ATHENS, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Greek sources disclosed today that a number of troops from the rugged hills of Crete have been thrown into the Greek front line against the retreating Italians in Albania. Greeks describe these men, whose favorite weapon is a knife, as surpassed in toughness only by the kingdom's famed mountain troops.

STRUGA, Yugoslav Frontier, Dec. 11.—(BUP)—Greek troops were reported in frontier dispatches today as seriously threatening Port Palermo on the coast and Tepelini, important Italian concentration points south of the main Italian base at Elbasan.

The Greeks were reported only five miles from Tepelini and dispatches said their artillery shells were crashing into the town, setting fires and causing heavy casualties.

By BEN AMES

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 11.—(BUP)—British warplanes supporting the Greek troops driving against Italians in Albania yesterday struck hard at Valona, chief supply port for Italians fighting south of Tirana, a Royal Air Force communiqué said today.

The Greek "blitzkrieg" was reported rolling back the Italian line in South Albania on the Adriatic front, 12 miles north of Argirokastro.

"R.A.F. bombers again raided Valona yesterday," the British communiqué said. "A ship in the harbor was hit and other bombs fell among buildings, a munitions dump and a motor transport park. From all operations our aircraft returned safely."

In London, British military quarters reported further Greek advances on all fronts in Albania. The Greek "blitzkrieg" was reported rolling back the Italian line in South Albania on the Adriatic front, 12 miles north of Argirokastro.

ITALY WINNING WAR ACCORDING TO "STATISTICS"

ROME, Dec. 11.—(CP)—According to "statistics" issued today, the Italians are winning the war easily in the air and at sea. In the air the Italians asserted they had shot down 467 "enemy" planes against a loss of 10 of their own.

At sea they claimed the sinking of 27 British warships as against the loss of 23 of their own. The British Admiralty has announced the loss of one old-type destroyer and one of two submarines in the Mediterranean.

At Christmas, there is a general desire to spread good cheer and to make others happy. No group is receiving more attention than the men comprising the armed forces of Canada.

The men who are going forward to do battle for King and Country are deserving of our consideration. They are going in defense of our country against a fiendish aggressor.

But don't forget the men who have already done their bit. They are the soldiers of the Old Brigade.

Advisory Board To Control Appeals For Voluntary War Services In Canada Named

W. T. Henry, Of Edmonton, Is Named Alberta Representative—Five Organizations Included On Board

OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—(CP)—The national war services department today announced the formation of an advisory board to control appeals for funds for voluntary war work.

The board is to be known as the National War Service Advisory Board, and is headed by C. L. Burton, of Toronto, and includes a representative from each province as well as representatives of the voluntary war service organizations.

Provision is made for representative inclusion of representatives of other organizations which may be given authority to conduct national appeals.

Announcing formation of the board the department said, "Since the commencement of the war public opinion has strongly developed towards the viewpoint that national appeals for funds for war purposes should be in some way unified."

"With this object in view a series of meetings of representatives of certain large organizations were held. These attempts failed. An agreement, however, was reached recommending the setting up of a national war service advisory board."

Under the chairmanship of Mr. Burton, other board representatives are: British Columbia, T. S. Dixon, Vancouver; Alberta, W. T. Henry, Edmonton; Saskatchewan, A. J. Leidy, Saskatoon; Manitoba, Peter D. Amos, Winnipeg; Ontario, J. Arthur D. Amos, Ottawa; Quebec, Leon I. de la Riviere, Quebec; Nova Scotia,

Three Italian Generals Among Large Number Of Troops Taken As Fascist Desert Base Falls

Speed Of Motorization Only Hope For Possibly 30,000 Men To Escape Encirclement By British Forces

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(CP)—The British army, carrying on its slashing offensive in the western Egyptian desert, captured the Italian-held town of Sidi Barrani, 70 miles from the Libyan frontier, this afternoon, the ministry of information announced tonight.

They took a large number of prisoners, including three Italian generals, the ministry said, quoting a communiqué from Cairo.

No details of the final attack on the Italian base—the farthest point to which the forces of Marshal Graziani had advanced—were given, but an earlier communiqué said the British army had taken 6,000 prisoners, apparently as they fought their way to the town.

Follows Intensive Aerial Activity

The fall of Sidi Barrani followed intensive aerial activity by the Royal Air Force and the fleet air arm and naval action by the Mediterranean fleet which has been shelling the coast as the motorized land units, moving in a wide half circle, swept up to the coast.

Headquarters in Cairo had reported that six Italian planes were shot down in the desert yesterday, and that besides the 6,000 prisoners huge quantities of war material had been seized.

The British command, after driving a wedge between the Italians at Sidi Barrani and those farther west, had concentrated on cleaning up numerous "pockets" where Italians lay in fortified camps.

Other troops advanced on Sidi Barrani, the point from which Graziani had been expected to launch his attack on Alexandria and Suez.

The R. A. F. in support of the mechanized land forces, bombed every Italian barracks at Bardia and the steep road at Salum, just inside Egypt at the Libyan frontier.

Parts Of Two Divisions Are Trapped

By FREDERICK KUIH
LONDON, Dec. 11.—(BUP)—British forces have trapped parts of two crack Italian divisions in the Egyptian desert and have hopes of surrounding the entire divisions, numbering perhaps 30,000 men, military informants said today. Already 6,000 Italian prisoners have been taken.

The chance of the Italians to escape encirclement depends on the extent of their mechanization—the speed with which they are able to withdraw—provided the British are able to hold their new positions, it was said.

For the present the British were reported to be attacking a series of defensive forts in preparation for a drive against the main Fascist army in the coastal zone between Sidi Barrani and Sollum, on the Libyan frontier, it was reported.

Wedge Driven South Of Sidi Barrani

Fighting was proceeding today, they said, in the neighborhood of the important camp of Maktul, 14 miles west of Sidi Barrani.

British Empire motorized units have driven a wedge through the Italians south of Sidi Barrani, it was reported.

Trouble Looms On Retail Price Front; Test Faced Regarding Butter, Lumber

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—Trouble on the retail price front seemed in the making today, as war controls faced a test in regard to butter and possibly a test in regard to lumber.

A report from Winnipeg that the retail price of sugar had jumped four cents per 10 pounds astonished officials of the war price board. The board is prepared to investigate any complaints brought before it, but sugar has been no problem at all lately. Since an increase of 30 cents, should not suffer any increase in price. CANADA FIELD CROPS WORTH $648,286,000

1940 Value, Apart From 1939, Highest Since 1930

OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—(CP)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics today estimated gross value of Canada's 1940 field crops at $648,286,000 compared with a gross value in 1939 of $606,672,000.

"Apart from 1939, the 1940 value of field crops was the highest since 1930, when field crop production was valued at $602,000,000," the bureau said.

The 1940 wheat crop was valued at $200,000,000 compared with $180,000,000 in 1939. Increased production this year more than offset a decline in the average farm price from 54 cents a bushel in 1939 crop to 48 cents in 1940 crop.

Other crops valued were: barley, $40,000,000; oats, $30,000,000; flax, $10,000,000; soybeans, $10,000,000; corn, $10,000,000; and other crops, $10,000,000.

Value of the 1940 crop was also increased by the increase in the price of wheat from 48 cents in 1939 to 54 cents in 1940.

Although the price of flaxseed is lower for the 1940 crop than for 1939, increased production of flaxseed this year raised the value of the crop by $10,000,000 to $30,000,000.

TOTAL VALUE

Total value of 1940 field crops is made up of the following items: wheat, $200,000,000; barley, $40,000,000; oats, $30,000,000; flax, $10,000,000; soybeans, $10,000,000; corn, $10,000,000; and other crops, $10,000,000.

Japanese People Convinced War With United States Is Possibility Of Near Future

Japan has made an alliance with Germany and Italy. Her leaders admit it contemplates the possibility of war with the United States. What would the Japanese feel if they were to win such a conflict? Here follows the first of two stories examining up to the Japanese state of mind, written by Reiman Morris, three years chief of the Associated Press Tokyo bureau.—EDITOR.

By REIMAN MORRIS

TOKYO, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The belief is widely prevalent in Japan today that Japan and the United States are on the road to war. Some Japanese believe it will be a direct collision between these two nations alone; others see it as a part of a vast British-American struggle against Japan, Germany and Italy, now formally united in an alliance.

Col. Deacon added that a survey last week being done along this line all over Canada had been completed.

FOUR ORGANIZATIONS

Four major organizations, the Canadian League, Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army and the YMCA, are authorized by the defence department to provide services for the military and naval forces. All-Steel "Blisters" London's Newest Sentry Boxes

This steel blinder is London's newest sentry box. RECRUITING FOR AIRFORCE WILL UNDERGO CHANGE

OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—(CP)—To reach and enlist the particular class of men required, at the same time obtaining British journeymen by applications to recruiting centres, the Royal Canadian Air Force announced late Tuesday it had revised its recruiting plans.

Augmented staffs will be provided at 17 centres with headquarters at Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Regina, Winnipeg, North Bay, Windsor, London, Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec City, Moncton, Charlottetown and Halifax.

Recruiting officers from these centres will visit communities where they are in regular contact with the public, making trips by automobile to interview prospective recruits, thus making trips by automobile unnecessary.

In the case of disease of new recruits will be provided with transportation to centres for final approval. If they are then not found suitable for enlistment in final tests, they will be given transportation home.

Hitler Speech On "Defensive" Say Observers

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(CP)—British observers Tuesday considered the tone of Hitler's speech, "defensive" rather than aggressive as he said usual threats.

It was pointed out the speech contained no good news, nor indeed any special news at all for the German public. It was found surprising that there were no references to present relations with Italy, Japan and Soviet Russia.

GOBERICH, Ont., Dec. 11.—(CP)—The first class of Royal Canadian Air Force students to graduate from No. 12 elementary Training School at Six Harbor Airport left Thursday afternoon for another school to continue their training under the Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

SAGUENAY IS UNDER REPAIR AT SHIPYARDS

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(CP)—Admiralty workmen swarmed today over H.M.C.S. Saguenay, repairing damage suffered by the sturdy destroyer in an encounter with an enemy submarine while guarding a convoy of merchant ships bound for Britain.

A portion of the Canadian crew of the destroyer, commanded by Cmdr. George Miles, brought their crippled ship to port after losing 21 of their comrades in the engagement and after subduing a raging fire that threatened their destruction.

Following the action, Cmdr. Miles put the bulk of his crew on another British ship and sailed the Saguenay with a skeleton crew for 45 days through halting seas.

"One tear through the hood and sent splinters into his left eye. The second struck his spare petrol tank, which exploded," he said. The third struck the hull and tore away

British Pilot, Referred To As "Bravest Man In War" Wants To Return To Action

By DOUGLAS AMARON

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(CP)—E.L.L. James Brindley Nicolson is a conscientious chap who feels that four years training in the Royal Air Force should qualify him for more than one German plane.

That's why, although his finger is still stiff from the scars of burns and doctors still have him under observation, he wants to get back to flying.

Tell, with a shock of wavy hair that brought him "The Professor" as a nickname in his squadron, Nicolson has been called "the bravest man of the war." He has had only one air fight, shot down only one enemy plane, yet he is the R.A.F. higher command's first Victoria Cross holder.

FIGHTS WHILE WOUNDED

The official account tells why this handsome, 25-year-old Sturges boy's name was added to those of 12 other heroes of the second great war who have been awarded the services' highest honor.

"E.L. Nicolson has gained his V.C. for refusing to jump from a blazing Hurricane until he had destroyed the enemy aircraft."

"He was the first to be hit and he had been twice wounded," the account said. "For 48 hours doctors fought for his life."

"E.L. Nicolson was on patrol over the Southampton area with his squadron on the early morning of Aug. 16. He saw three Junkers bombers crossing the lower of the squadron about four miles away, and he was determined to chase the Jankers with his squadron."

GAS TANK EXPLODES

"He got within a mile of them, and then saw a squadron of Spitfires turn back to join his squadron, climbing 18,000 to 19,000 feet."

"Suddenly, as he himself said, there were four big bangs inside his aircraft. They were cannon shells from a Messerschmitt III."

"One tear through the hood and sent splinters into his left eye. The second struck his spare petrol tank, which exploded," he said. The third struck the hull and tore away

WHEAT PROBLEM AGGRAVATED BY SUBSIDY, SAID

KITCHENER, Ont., Dec. 11.—(CP)—W. F. Watson, secretary of the Ontario Wheat Producers' Association, said in an address here Tuesday night that subsidization, costing Canadian taxpayers $100,000,000 in the last few years, has aggravated the wheat problem, not solved it.

"Unless something unforeseen happens, Canada will likely have to spend $200,000,000 in the next year on wheat by July 1 next. Right now we have sufficient wheat to feed our own people and the people of Britain until the end of 1942 without producing another bushel."

"Although Canada has been engaged in another world war for 16 months, agriculture is still suffering from depression."

"Ghosts" Trail British Bomber Diving On Berlin

The sketch above was drawn by Capt. Bryan de Gineau, staff artist of the London Illustrated News, after a visit to a Royal Air Force operations airfield. An R.A.F. pilot just returned from a bombing raid told the story which became the subject of the sketch and which Capt. de Gineau relates here.

During a recent Royal Air Force raid on Berlin the pilot of one of the British heavy bombers found himself in a warm corner. He had just located his target, a power station, when his aircraft was picked up by one of the German "coques of light."

These are formed by a dozen or more searchlights whose beams, standing toward one another, all meet at a certain point. It was in one of these dazzling, glaring pools that the pilot found himself, and as he fought a way out, the enemy's anti-aircraft batteries opened an intense fire on him.

The searchlights held him back early. He decided to dive:
Down came the nose of the big bomber and it sailed into a shallow

Negotiating Alliance

According to a report from a Japanese news agency circulated in London, Sir Archibald Kerr, British ambassador in China, is negotiating a secret military pact with the Chinese government of Chiang Kai-shek. Under the terms of the alleged alliance, Britain would supply war supplies to China and establish military assembly plants in China to produce warplanes for China. In the event of British intervention in China, Japan, the report said, General Chiang's forces would come under command of the British Far Eastern commander-in-chief.

COUNCIL OPENS ANNUAL DRIVE

ANNUAL DRIVE FOR YULE CHEER

Acting as a clearing centre for individual citizens, welfare organizations, churches, schools and clubs desirous of extending Christmas Cheer to the needy this year, the Edmonton Council of Social Agencies sent out a call this week, asking such organizations to contact

The Council states that before deciding to give hampers, etc., to any particular family, the donor should first get in touch with the Council in order to ascertain whether not a hamper has already been subscribed to for that family. The Council will also assist in suggestions for the filling of a hamper. Lists of families needing help are available at the office.

It is pointed out that prices this year have increased sharply with the result that many families, already struggling on small incomes, are faced with extra hardships. The

MATA HARI'S DAUGHTER

By Maurice Dekobra and Leyla George

HIS first rehearsal for the role of Queen of the Chessboard Ballet would have been more absorbing to Brinda if she had not been listening so intently for a repetition of the mysterious humming. But the wireless signal—it was one—did not sound again.

By the end of the evening, she began to wonder if she had not made a mistake. Possibly the noise had come from some of the elaborate electrical apparatus that occupied so much of Prince Valdez's attention. But she had made her decision.

Besides Brinda, the ballet principals included two bored-looking young men—who, as they had nothing much to do, made excellent King-and-a-diamond girls, none of whom she knew, others whom she had never seen before. The cast seemed to be a haphazard collection of Bohemians and Mafiosi.

In a little while, Brinda almost forgot to wonder about the wireless net. Caught in the spell of the dance, she found herself drifting, as usual, into another world where all was lightness and exuberant motion, and there was no such thing as thought.

To her surprise, there was none of the stiffness she had feared would be inseparable from anything so formidable-sounding as a chessboard ballet. The movements were fluid and harmonious—swift pirouettes from square to square—rapid and graceful changes of position—all according to a pattern, which agreed vaguely with the rules of chess, yet, which never became fixed or ponderous.

As Queen, her own moves were the least restricted of all, and she found herself falling more and more under the thrall of the role as the rehearsal progressed.

"You're a wonder—a born dancer!" Brinda told her during a rest. "You are wonderful—a born dancer!" But you will find out there are some things you will do.

Animal Crackers
Brinda couldn't help saying it. "On my account or Glad's?" "What? Why, Glad doesn't care anything about Valdez. He's a sort of chessboard figure for her, and she treats him like dirt. But you—well, I never got the idea you and the Prince bit it off from the start. I mean, at that restaurant."

"Thanks," said Brinda, in a thin, eager voice. "I didn't mean that. Honestly, darling, you don't believe."

It was the first quarter. They made it up immediately, with Dick appropriately apologetic and humble. Nothing more was said at the time about Brinda's going to Valdez. But it left a bitter taste in her mouth, and she sometimes made Brinda sorry she had not adhered to her original resolution.

Another show was preparing. On leaving the hospital, Dick was to have gone to the home of a school friend at Hawtorn to recuperate. But, before being discharged, he told Brinda he was going to Lord Montgomerie's instead.

"I don't enjoy the prospect," he added, "but His Lordship has an interest in my invention, after all, and I can't very well refuse him. Besides, dear, it's important I get to work again right away."

At his request, Brinda thought the plan she had guarded as her own. "I wish you were going anywhere," she said. "Not because of Glad's, but—well, I mean, wonder about Lord Montgomerie."

"Oh, he's sound enough," answered Brinda with the conviction in her tone. "The jaw set in a slushy line. Anyway, you do as you please. Valdez, for instance."

Brinda let it rest there. But if Valdez had known that night might have been his opportunity, he would have chosen the occasion to make some changes in the steps Brinda had already learned.

She was as furious, as almost walked out on the entire ballet. But some nannies restrained her. So she persuaded the new steps—not only at the studio, but also reached home before her per-formance.

The better to remember the new changes, she borrowed Sir John's chessboard, and worked them out with a real queen. As she made each move, she noted in the customary code used in registering chess moves.

Then, unable to think of anything but Dick, she crumpled the paper and tossed it in the waste-basket. There, with an exclamation of malignant triumph, the housekeeper Walker found it directly to Sir John.

"You say you found this in my niece's waste-basket?" asked Sir John.

"That I did," declared the housekeeper. "And if it isn't one of them secret ciphers I'll be surprised. What's more, she had a little box hid in that jewel case of hers for a time—only it's gone now. And she comes in at all hours of the night."

"These are only chess notes, Walker. I often make notes like them myself. I'm sorry, my good woman, but I'm afraid something is affecting your mind. I suggest you look for another place."

"I can't have space in my house!" snapped Sir John.

Walker looked at him un-pleasantly. "Can't have space in this house?" she said. "Well, if you can't get any more space, I'm guessing—these notes or no chess moves—she's flung out of the room. Sir John rang for his orderly."

"Better take care of her," he said. "Four she's crazy." He looked at the chessboard. He jotted some figures. "What's this?" he muttered, and reached for the phone. "Captain Bullard? Send your best cipher man at once, please."

The cipher expert arrived on the spot.

"Sh! don't," said Sir John. "I've something quite hot here. It appears to be in code. I wish your eye to over-"
